WE THINK FOR YOU ALWAYS TWO STEPS AHEAD

The media world is in upheaval: The internet is fundamentally changing the production and consumption of content and news. In the process, the new and classic media present all those involved with ever new challenges. Our experts in press, media and copyright law will help you navigate this dynamic environment.

The reputation and economic success of a company, its products and services can be significantly and permanently damaged by untrue reporting. Therefore, one focus of our legal work is to avoid such publications in advance by drafting and editing press releases or editorial text contributions and by supporting and shaping the media companies.

In the aftermath of untrue reporting, we also represent your interests out of court and in court in enforcing your claims for injunctive relief, counterstatement, retraction, removal and damages.

What about copyright protection for your texts, campaigns or concepts? In the information age, copyright determines the marketability, protection and thus the economic value of your goods and services. In addition to outstanding knowledge of the various technologies, legal advice in copyright law requires above all legal experience and knowledge of the constantly changing national and international regulations.

In addition, the copyright assessment and structuring of business models of various kinds and the corresponding contract drafting in European and global projects are part of our daily business in copyright law. Our expertise in copyright law includes general advice and representation in disputes relating to copyright issues of all kinds, such as exploitation and infringement issues, product piracy cases, disputes in connection with licensing and publishing agreements as well as in the context of copyright due diligence.

We advise multinational corporations as well as medium-sized companies and start-ups, especially those in the Web 3.0 environment, on all issues of press, media and copyright law.

Technological developments, legislation and case law are continuously changing media, press and copyright law. We have our finger on the pulse for you, observe the developments and can give you predictive advice.

We work closely with other business areas of our firm, for example on transactions.
